Dear Mr. McCone:

Since I noticed that, in the course of the Senate hearing, it was indicated that a person with a military background may be preferred for the position of Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, I would like to recommend Brigadier General William Ray Peers to your attention.

General Peers is presently serving as the Chief of the Joint Chiefs of Staff liaison group to the Joint Strategic Target Planning Staff in Omaha. During World War II, he was Commanding Officer of Detachment 101, Office of Strategic Services, India-Burma Theatre, and has held many assignments in Army Intelligence since that time. In view of his record in the field of Intelligence, I believe General Peers is qualified for the position as your Deputy.

With best wishes, I am

Yours sincerely,

The Honorable John McCone, Director

Dear Mr. McCone:

I am writing you at the suggestion of Senator Prescott Bush to highly recommend Brigadier General William Ray Peers for your consideration, should it be your decision to appoint a military man as your Deputy Director.

General Peers is now serving in Omaha as the Chief of the JCS liaison group to the Joint Strategic Target Planning Staff.

I served under General Peers for two years during World War II. The General was Commanding Officer of Detachment 101, Office of Strategic Services, India-Burma Theatre. General Peers wrote a brilliant record in Intelligence, and in covert and overt operations, in one of the most difficult assignments of World War II. I have always regarded it as a singularly good stroke of luck that I had the opportunity to serve in his command. Since ours was a small and relatively unusual outfit, I had the chance to work very closely with General Peers even though I was an enlisted man for the bulk of the war.

I am not intimately acquainted with the details of General Peers' service since the summer of 1945, but I believe many of his assignments have been in Army Intelligence. As an active Army Reserve officer in that branch, with a vital and continuing interest in the future of the Central Intelligence Agency, I feel that no man could be better qualified by reason of demonstrated competence for the post as your Deputy than William Ray Peers. I write not for myself, but from the standpoint of what is best for the security of America.

With kindest personal regards,

Most sincerely,

Clark MacGregor
